Across the YEARS

● ON THIS DATE in 1918, to promote food conservation during wartime, the U.S. government called for one meatless day, two wheatless days and two porkless days each week. JAN. 26

One hump ...

... or two? The versatile camel is fast disappearing from the deserts of Saudi Arabia, says the latest issue of Audubon magazine. Little-known facets of dromedary lore include these infobits:

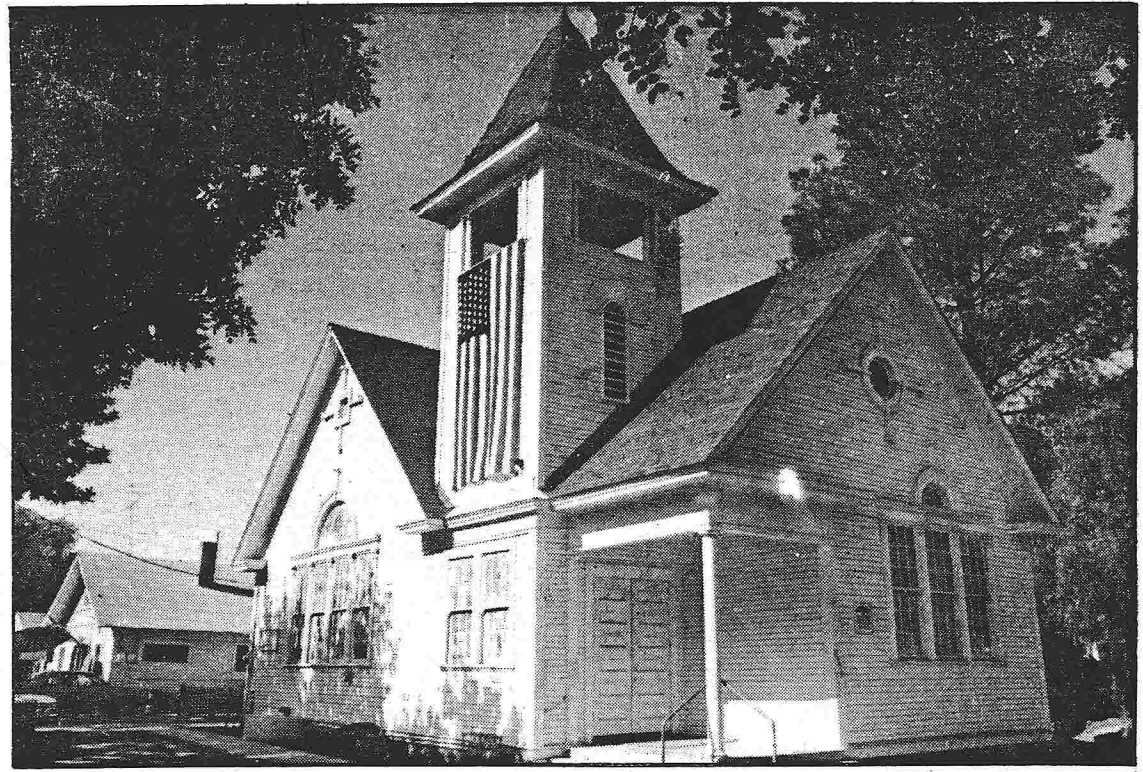

■ Bedouin women wash their hair in camel urine, which kills lice, stops itching and imparts a sheen.

■ Camel milk is "warm, frothy and salty when taken straight from the udder or delicious as cheese after it has been allowed to curdle."

■ Bedouins have 700 words for "camel."
 (We can think of No. 701.)
